Council may pull plug on infected water fountain

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HPnorthants.co.uk

THERE is a possibility the fountain in Northampton may not be turned back on.

The leader of Northampton Borough Council has expressed his anger over not being told the reason for the Market Square water feature being switched off.

Councillor David Mackintosh was speaking exclusively to the Herald & Post after we reported the delay in councillors and the public being told about Legionella bacteria being found in it.

Cllr Mackintosh, who was on annual leave when it was discovered, found out four days after officers at the council received the test results.

An internal and external investigation are ongoing to find out what exactly happened and what changes may need to be made to the fountain.

Cllr Mackintosh said: "I am supposed to be told as quickly as possible and that did not happen in this case. That's part of the investigation to find out why the process was not properly followed. I was extremely angry."

He added: "It is something we are constantly testing for public safety and if we ever felt there was a reason for it not to be deemed safe, which is what happened, then it would be turned off."

"We took the view early in the year with the water drought to switch it off to show we treated water responsibly.

"I have asked for an investigation to take place to find out how the situation arose that the water fountain was switched off. But I was not made aware of it, which is unacceptable. I have made it clear to officers that it's not acceptable.

"All options are open going forward. Until we are satisfied it's safe for the public we will not be switching it back on. We need to consider the long term future.

"We could make some structural changes to the fountain based on the findings, which could include changes to how it operates or fencing the area off so the public cannot walk through it. It may never be switched back on."

Authority backs residents' doubts over care facility

A RESIDENT campaigning against proposals to extend a care facility in Spratton is celebrating after the parish council unanimously agreed to oppose the plans.

Paul Honeywell, of Spratton Lodge, spoke at Spratton Hall on Tuesday night to publicly call on councillors to say no to the development.

At the packed meeting, Spratton parish councillors all agreed to oppose it.

The Broomhill, in Holdenby Road, was bought by St Matthews Healthcare last year and currently provides accommodation for 15 people suffering from a range of mental health issues.

Under the plans a further 84 rooms would be added.

Mr Honeywell said: "We believe there has been more than 200 letters of objections to Daventry District Council. That is a substantial number to take the effort to write."

"It was a really good outcome on Tuesday night."

People can make representations to the council until Tuesday.

10 days to save prison

WELLINGBOROUGH Prison could be handed a stay of execution in the next ten days.

Yesterday, Conservative MP Peter Bone, the representative for Wellingborough and Rushden, argued the case against the jail being closed at a special debate in Westminster Hall.

While he did not get assurances the county prison would remain open, the backbencher said the campaign launched to keep it open was in a better position than it was 24 hours ago. In July, the then Justice Secretary, Kenneth Clarke announced the category C prison would close by the end of the year, saving £10m.

The recent cabinet reshuffle may prove a blessing in disguise for protesters who have been fighting hard for this decision to be reversed.

A petition launched by prison officer's wife Lynne Holcombe collected nearly 3,000 signatures from people who did not agree with the prison closing and this was presented to Parliament on Monday by Mr Bone.

He said: "I will be meeting with the new Justice Secretary Jeremy Wright in the next ten days."

"I am hoping that by having this private meeting I might be able to persuade him to reconsider the position. I hope I can put the argument to him and get him to keep it open."

"I think this is best alternative we could have got at this stage as the new minister has only been in his job for four hours."

Veterinary staff are in the line of fire

A GROUP of women will hot foot it across coals to raise money for an animal charity.

The colleagues from Vets4Pets in St James Road, Northampton, are hoping to raise £1,000 by doing a fire walk on Wednesday.

Sarah Lane, who is organising the event, is no stranger to daredevil fundraising having already done a bungee jump and skydive.

She said: "We have to go through a two-hour training session before we can do it and I am hoping we will all get through it and won't chicken out."

Anyone wishing to donate can do so at www.justgiving.com/sarah-lane9

You can watch them tackle the fire walk at 8pm on Wednesday at the rugby club in Cut Throat Lane, Wellingborough.

The money will be donated by Animals in Need Northamptonshire.

'Still more to be done' in bid to bring town to life

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@hpnorthants.co.uk

COUNCILLORS and business representatives had a last tour of the Fishmarket before it is demolished in the next two months.

It was part of an update on the Northampton Alive regeneration projects which was kick-started in March.

The Fishmarket site will be the home of the new bus station.

Speakers from both the borough and county council told business leaders how the developments had been going.

Peter Mawson, chief executive of West Northamptonshire Development Corporation (WNDC), spoke about the Castle Station plans.

He said: "At the moment it doesn't provide anything that anyone in Northampton would want. Whatever reason people have for travelling through Northampton, it doesn't satisfy that need."

Cllr David Mackintosh

WNDC chief Peter Mawson

"Yet it is so important to the town. In the heart of the enterprise zone there sits Castle Station, right in the middle. It is not providing the facilities we all feel it needs."

Northampton Borough Council leader, Councillor David Mackintosh, said: "There's still more to be done to attract more business investment and jobs. We want more help in securing that vision."

He added that Legal and General, owner of the Grosvenor Centre, has appointed new architects and planning consultants for the redevelopment.

On Wednesday councillors will be given the chance to see and discuss the timeline of the 'Big Six' developments, which will take place over the next two years.

Concerned mum's cop call over boozy son, 51

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@hpnorthants.co.uk

A MOTHER rang police to complain that her drunk son would not tell her where he got the alcohol from – despite him being 51.

The man had been taken to his home in Northampton town centre on Saturday night after being found in the street drunk.

His mum, who was described as a 'lovely lady', called the force after he refused to tell her where the booze came from.

In an update on Northamptonshire Police's Facebook page,

Oscar 1 said: 'This made me smile. . . We've had a lovely lady ring in to complain that officers dropped her son at home because he was found in the street drunk and now he's refusing to tell her where he got the alcohol. . .

'Nothing unusual there, kids seem to be more cheeky now than ever. . . oh, hang on. . . he's 51 years old!!'

The post, written at about 11pm on Saturday, prompted a deluge of responses from the public, with it so far being liked by more than 1,000 people and with about 90 comments on the wall post. Wayne Lamberth said: 'Blinding. Made me chuckle.'

Andrew Moomin Ellis commented on Oscar 1's humour: 'Nice to see the police are still real people with a wicked sense of humour. Just hope his mum has a sense of humour in the morning.'

Simon David Barnes agreed, adding: 'Excellent! Really made me laugh! I think it's great the police continue to put Facebook updates on, especially on a busy Saturday night.'

Arlene McColl said: 'Haha this made me giggle bad boy she's probably grounded him now.'

Roman shoes to give new museum sole

THE remains of 2,000-year-old Roman shoes are to be exhibited at a new museum.

The artefacts have been kept safe in Malthouse Court, in The Lindens, Towcester, where they were discovered in 1998 when retirement apartments were being constructed.

But now they are to go on display in the new Towcester Museum in White Horse Yard.

Volunteers' Coordinator Martin Johns said: "We are grateful that these artefacts have been cared for and kept safe by Malthouse Court.

"Visitors to Towcester's museum will soon be able to see these shoes for themselves, as well as many other fascinating items that chart Towcester's rich history."

It is set to open this autumn.

Hard working Frank will be 'missed' by council

TRIBUTES have been paid to a Brixworth councillor who passed away after a long battle with cancer.

Councillor Frank Wiig, who had been a ward councillor for Daventry District Council for 12 years, died last Thursday.

He lived in Brixworth for 25 years with his wife, fellow councillor Liz Wiig, and held various portfolios and responsibilities, including chairman of the planning committee, deputy leader of the council and chairman of the authority.

Cllr Chris Millar, leader of Daventry District Council, said: "It is terribly sad news to hear about Frank passing away and our deepest sympathies and condolences go to Liz and the rest of his family.

"Frank always worked for the best interests of the community in Brixworth and the district right until the end, despite his illness.

"He was a popular and enthusiastic councillor and he will be sorely missed."

Ian Vincent, chief executive of Daventry District Council, added: "Frank was an enthusiastic and hard working member who was respected by staff who dealt with him, and his contribution will be a sad loss to the council. Our thoughts are with Liz and the family at this time."

His funeral will take place at Northampton Crematorium in Milton Malsor next Thursday.

No holding back as MP slams own party

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HNorthants.co.uk

OUTSPOKEN MP Brian Binley has launched attacks on top members of his Government.

The Conservative Northampton South representative has taken to his blog, national newspapers and the TV to criticise PM David Cameron and George Osborne.

Starting last week, he called the Prime Minister the 'chambermaid' of the Liberal Democrats, who he described as 'a marginal, irrelevant pressure group who have got him in a virtual arm-lock with a constant stream of threats to abandon ship'.

The backbench Tory then took to calling for Mr Osborne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to be removed from his post.

Mr Binley, 70, who has been an MP for seven years, announced his disappointment that Mr

ANGER: Brian Binley MP

Osborne remained in his position after the PM's reshuffle of his Cabinet on Tuesday.

On his blog he wrote: 'But the King of the Treasury, Mr Osborne, is staying put. What a pity.'

'Moving Osborne would have been a sign of humility from the Prime Minister that the UK's economy is more important than a close friendship.

'We can only hope Mr Osborne feels a renewed sense of purpose – and gratitude – in being trusted to manage the UK's economy until summer 2015.'

'Otherwise, it seems, the growth strategy may hang on Ken Clarke.'

He did however 'greet the promotion of Chris Grayling to Justice Secretary with a sigh of relief' and said 'Mr Cameron has finally moved several key pieces in the great game of chess.'

'For those of us who have been critical, there has been more reshuffling than we anticipated – but nonetheless, it seems that the Prime Minister has given some thought to the future.'

On Monday, Mr Osborne was booed by Paralympic Games crowds as he presented medals for the T38 400m race.

Former office block is given the go ahead to become £3m school

COUNCILLORS have agreed to buy an empty office block for £1.6 million and turn it into a school.

It will cost another £1.3m to make the conversions to turn Stirling House in Cliftonville Road, Northampton, into an 'annexe' of Abington Vale Primary School.

Opening next September, it will be a base for 210 pupils.

The purchase was agreed at a Northamptonshire County Council cabinet meeting on Tuesday.

The authority has stated there has been 'unprecedented demand' for school places, meaning seven schools need to be enlarged, including Earl Spencer Primary School in Northampton and Weedon Bec Primary School in Weedon.

The plan had come under criticism last week from opposition councillors as well as a local headteacher.

Across the county 3,150 extra places are needed.

Yesterday the council announced it was looking to close Braybrooke Primary School in Market Harborough because falling numbers mean it 'might no longer be financially viable'.

The authority estimates if it was to build a school it would have cost about £6m.

The event is free and is at Wooden Supplies, Harlestone Firs, Harlestone Road, New Duston.

Pitch politics halt memorial meeting

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HNorthants.co.uk

A MOTHER has criticised attendees at a public meeting about a plan to have a memorial pitch in memory of her son for making it 'political'.

A large group of Far Cotton residents and local councillors met last Thursday to talk about potential changes to land in Eagle Drive, Northampton.

Options include using the land for a pitch in memory of Northampton-born footballer Richard Butcher, who died last year, and the Saints having a training facility there.

No firm plans are in place but in July Northampton Borough Council agreed to look at the land.

But the meeting ended abruptly when Richard's mother Gail, who organised it, became upset at people using the time to 'score political points'.

She said: "I have tried to raise money in memory of my son in support of the community."

"Football pitches are needed in the area and the only reason we pushed ahead with plans was because that is what the public wanted. I don't want my son's name tarnished because of politics. I don't feel that is fair to my family or Richard."

Gail Butcher

David Mackintosh, leader of Northampton Borough Council, said: "There are no firm plans at this stage. However, we do know there may be a real opportunity to deliver top class training facilities for our sporting teams as well as a fitting tribute to a local sportsman who died tragically young. However, all that has been agreed so far is that we are looking at what might be possible.

"As plans do come forward and a proposal does look like it will benefit the town and local area, there will be a full public consultation.

"We will need to ask residents what they think about leasing public land, and the planning process will also give everyone a chance to have their say on any proposals."

Climbing the family

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@HPnorthants.co.uk

YOU could call it the Downton Abbey effect.

The hit ITV series has been responsible for viewers in America holding themed parties while they watch the show and in the UK it has inspired people to research their family tree.

By tuning in to the drama and enjoying the twists and turns of the plots it has got people thinking about possible family members who could have worked in a big house, like the fictional Abbey, or someone who fought in the First World War.

What the programme does is get people thinking about their own family and what history it could contain.

For generations Northampton has been known around the world as the centre of the shoe-making industry.

It employed thousands of people in a variety of roles and county residents' ancestors would probably have been among this work force.

To help track down your shoe-making heritage Northampton Museum and Art gallery is running a weekend of sessions for anyone interested in discovery their roots.

They are taking place this Saturday and Sunday and everyone is free to come along to explore their heritage. On Saturday there will be sessions between 10am and midday and 12.30pm to 5pm.

On Sunday people can go along between 2pm and 5pm.

The event is part of this year's Heritage Open Days which starts today and runs until Sunday and is also part of a countryside initiative to help people explore their family's heritage.

There will be access to information stored by the Record Office as well as the museum – which goes back as far as Roman shoe-makers.

There is also the opportunity to get guidance from the Northamptonshire Family tree of shoe-making

BACK IN TIME: Public Services Manager Daniel Williams and Chairwoman of the Northamptonshire Family History Society Angela Malin in the Records Office

History Society on researching your relatives.

Angela Malin, chairwoman of the Society, said: "We offer people advice and help on how they should find their family tree."

"We can tell people where they can get copies of birth, death and marriage certificates. We help them find out information from museums, libraries and record offices.

"You should begin your research with yourself and write down all the information you know about you and your relatives. You should be able to collect photographs and memorabilia."

"People are very interested in family history as it is a popular hobby." Being a family historian is partly detective work as you have to build a case using blocks and each one takes you to the next level.

Councillor Brandon Eldred, Northampton Borough Council's cabinet member for community engagement, said: "Shoemaking is a big part of our town's heritage and something we continue to celebrate and recognise today."

"With so many people involved in shoemaking over the years there will be lots of fascinating family connections going back through the years."

"Even if you have only moved to the area recently, I am sure it would not take going back too many generations until you come across a Northampton connection."

"If you do find a relative who worked in the shoemaking industry then our museum is the perfect place to find out more about what they did and how they lived."

"I would encourage everyone to come along and find out more."

DVLA spot driving licence applicant's bogus ID

A MAN was caught trying to get a British driving licence when he used a fake Portuguese one as identity.

Rasim Kurnaz, 43, bought the bogus ID from a man who came into the takeaway shop where he worked so he didn't have to take a driving test.

Kurnaz, who is a Turkish national, did not think he would pass a British driving test because of the language barrier.

But when he sent the Portuguese licence to the DVLA as an application to convert it to a British one it was discovered to be a fraud by staff.

Kurnaz of Bern Links, Northampton, initially denied he knew about the application when interviewed but pleaded guilty last week at Northampton Crown Court to an offence of possession of an identity document with improper intention.

He was handed a eight-month sentence, suspended for two years, ordered to carry out 250 hours unpaid work in the community and must pay £150 costs.

Terry wants more detail in parish bid

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HPnorthants.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR has questioned the reasoning behind not giving out leaflets to homes explaining potential changes to parish councils before a referendum.

Terry Wire, leader of Northampton Borough Council's Labour group, says it is 'unacceptable' the council is not distributing information to affected households.

Plans are in the pipeline to create more parish councils in the borough and a referendum will be held on November 15.

He said: "As a parish council is going to cost every household in the respective area, we firmly believe every household should have some direct literature and consultation documents." He added: "Without getting any formal information through the post many households are going to wake up one morning to find a demand through the letterbox to pay an extra tax."

CONSULTATION
CALL: Cllr
Terry Wire

Cllr Brandon Eldred said: "This year people across Northampton have been joining the debate about how best to represent their area. We began this process in January and so far thousands of people have got involved. This week we have started the latest phase and are asking people to comment on 12 proposals to create new parish councils or change the boundaries of existing ones.

"As well as advertising in the Herald & Post we have promoted the consultation online, in our offices and reception areas, at local community centres, through schools, at local community forums and in the media."

He added: "We want as many people as possible to join the debate, however, after discussing the options we could not justify spending tens of thousands on sending out leaflets to every household."

Information about each of the proposals is available online at www.northampton.gov.uk/cgr

Time to know what commissioner job is about

AFTER seeing your article in last week's Herald & Post (August 30, Heading to the polls for top policing role) I have to admit I have a lot to catch up on.

I knew there was going to be an election for a Police and Crime Commissioner for Northamptonshire but I don't think the voting public, including myself, really understand what it's all about.

And it's not that long now until the November 15 election when we'll be going to the polls.

How are we meant to know what to look for when we don't understand what the role is about and what it will involve.

How can residents pick the best man for the job?

I also thought this job wasn't meant to be political but there has been plenty of party politics and mud slinging going on between certain candidates.

If this wasn't meant to be a political role then

Heading to the polls for top policing role something isn't working because it is.

And I can't help but think that voters will take politics on board when picking their commissioner.

It will be very interesting to see the results.

Will the county follow its normal political voting trends?

Or will the percentage of voting reveal more about which parties are being punished for their role in what is happening at a national level. Let's just hope we find out more before November.

C Charles

Promises are an early warning

LABOUR'S police and crime commissioner candidate, Lee Barron, is showing his true colours already – as red as his union masters and the socialists of old.

He wants to challenge the Government because he says they don't give Northamptonshire Police enough money; even though there will be more police here next year than there were under a Labour government and a Labour chaired police authority in 2004.

This is an early warning of a Labour candidate with scant regard for taxpayers. What next, marches on Parliament; an illegal budget; Red Ken in Northamptonshire?

The Conservative Police Commissioner candidate, Adam Simmonds, wants better use of the £130m a year police budget, more officers out from behind desks, a crackdown on violent crime and more done for victims of crime.

He will get my vote in November.

Busy site is schooling 'madness'

READING about the council's efforts to buy a former office block and turn it into a school (H&P August 30 'Panic buy' fury at £3m school office block bid), I have to say I think it is madness. The old site in Cliftonville Road, Northampton, seems like a terrible idea as a solution to fix the problem with school places. Firstly, this building is very close to Northampton General Hospital and an area of town that is already busy.

Secondly, are there not former middle school sites standing empty that would provide a better foundation and thirdly, is this chosen site going to provide the children with any sort of playing field or are they just meant to watch the traffic go by?

Is belting up beyond our royals?

WE are all under the impression that the law of the land states quite clearly that when travelling in any motor vehicle that a seatbelt must be worn, is that not so? So can anyone explain as to why certain members of the Royal Family sometimes don't wear a seatbelt. Are they above the law?

Battling Town bow out against Wolves

■ Sounded like a good game last night and Northampton were unlucky in the first half. I think they'll do well this season though as Boothroyd is a quality manager. He'll get them playing good football. I found a good site to help you follow your team's fixtures - <http://www.football-fixtures.info/> Just pick your team from the drop down menu and follow the instructions. It's free and simple to use plus there's no advertising.

Man injured in car jump at race track

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HNorthants.co.uk

A MAN was airlifted to hospital – after he tried to jump over a car on the track at Silverstone Circuit. He landed awkwardly and sustained a suspected fracture and dislocation to his ankle during the accident on Monday.

The race track medics initially treated the casualty but called Warwickshire & Northamptonshire Air Ambulance (WNAA) as they were concerned about the blood flow to the patient's injured foot.

Upon arrival, WNAA's crew found the casualty's pulse to be weak and the on board doctor administered strong pain relief to the casualty to sedate him and the crew put the ankle back into place.

They then splinted the injured ankle and flew the patient to hospital in Coventry.

Firm's £14m accounting black hole cuts its assets

A NORTHAMPTON-based company has reported a £14 million black hole in its accounts as a result of a 'mis-statement of accounting balances'.

Phoenix IT Group, which is based in Hunsbury Hill Avenue, made the announcement on the London Stock Exchange on Monday.

In a statement, the board said:

'Following organisational changes within the finance function and a number of internal reviews into working capital within the Group, information has very recently come to light indicating the mis-statement of a number of accounting balances within Servo Limited and its subsidiaries over a number of accounting periods. The information currently available suggests that certain control processes within the finance function at Servo Limited's Birstall site in Leeds have been repeatedly and deliberately circumvented.'

In order to correct the 'mis-statements' it will face a reduction in net assets of £14m on a post-tax basis.

Man wanted for 13 years faces court

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HPnorthants.co.uk

A MAN who was wanted for an offence for 13 years has finally faced justice for his crime.

Donald Lunn absconded when he was due in Northampton Crown Court in 1999 to face a charge of handling stolen goods.

The offence was in relation to a 'bogus hijacking' which took place in Northampton in 1997.

A lorry driver had been found with his hands tied in Wrexham and was to tell the police he had been forced to drive his HGV to Wales after being stopped by two men at a service station in Northampton.

It transpired, however, that he had been complicit in the robbery – which saw the trailer of his lorry

SENTENCE:
Judge
Richard
Bray

containing £350,000 of electrical items being stolen.

The trailer was traced to a depot and linked to Lunn and his brother David.

David Lunn pleaded guilty to the offence of handling stolen items in 1999 and was fined £3,000.

Donald Lunn, of West Bromwich, however, did not show up for court until last Thursday. In mitigation, his barrister Martin Butterworth said: "For 13 years he has been leading a working and perfectly lawful life."

Judge Richard Bray said: "This is a strange story which goes all the way back to 1999 when you were found in possession of a stolen trailer worth £6,000 or so.

"Instead of coming to court you disappeared. You haven't been arrested until very recently.

"You would have gone to prison for the original offence and absconding but I do bear in mind you have led a perfectly law abiding life; in marked contrast to your previous life."

Judge Bray handed him a nine month jail term, suspended for two years. He was also ordered to pay £3,000.

NEWLY OPENED SWEET MART

For anyone setting up a new business the key is to identify a niche market. And that is exactly what has brought Hasmukh Lakhani to Northampton.

His new store, Akshar Sweet Mart, aims to provide quality fresh Indian sweets and savouries to the public. Hasmukh, from London, says it is the first store he has opened and now commutes from the capital every day, but maintains that it is worth the journey.

"I chose to open a store in Northampton because there is nothing else like it in the town. The items we sell are 100 per cent vegetarian and come in fresh from London every day."

Hasmukh first came to notice Northampton after trying some of his products on a store in the town. And he struck it lucky when afterwards a premise became vacant just two buildings down, and the sweet mart, located in Broadmead Avenue, opened in May.

But while the shop sells predominantly Indian products, Hasmukh is keen to embrace the whole community.

"We cater for an open market, for everyone. As well as offering sweet and savouries, curries will also be cooked on site, and Hasmukh says that they will also appeal to people who are health conscious.

"We're going to cook our curries without using oil. This is really good for people who care about their health.

The shop has also recently introduced mini meals and snacks, serving items such as veggie burgers chat Puri, Bhel mix to name a few. The meals take minutes to cook and according to Hasmukh are 'perfect' for people with short lunch breaks.

As well as all this, Akshar Sweet Mart has said it caters for all occasions such as parties and weddings, and will even take orders for wedding cakes.

In additions to the above service on offer Akshar Sweet Mart will be happy to cook freshly hot Samosa and other snacks on request.

The shop is open six days a week (closed on Wednesday) and is open from 10am-6pm on four days, until 7pm on a Friday and 5pm on Sundays.

Driver fined for hitting road without proper licence

A MAN has been fined £1,500 for driving a private hire vehicle without a licence.

Terry Morgan of Milton Malsor was prosecuted by South Northamptonshire Council for operating without the required licence and for using a vehicle as a private hire car without having a current licence.

He failed to attend Wellingborough Magistrates' Court and was tried and fined in his absence on August 23. In addition to the fine of £750 per offence, Morgan was ordered to pay £150 costs and a victim surcharge fee of £15.

A council spokesman said: "The law relating to taxis and private hire vehicles was put in place to ensure the public can be confident that they are in a safe method of transport.

"An unlicensed taxi or private hire vehicle won't have the correct insurance, and checks won't have been carried out to show that the vehicle is safe, which may put any passengers in that vehicle at risk. And an unlicensed driver won't have been through the rigorous safety checks that we require.

"I would urge passengers to keep an eye out for official plates on both the inside and outside of the car which show it is legitimately licensed, and I very much hope this case sends a clear message that we will take action against illegal activities that may put the public at risk." Since the case Morgan has applied for a licence and this is currently being considered.

Anyone with any concerns about potential unlicensed vehicles/drivers in South Northamptonshire are advised to contact the council licensing enforcement officer on 01327 322192.

Male shoppers stabbed in two street attacks on same night

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@HPnorthants.co.uk

TWO men were stabbed as they left home to buy food.

In the first attack, the 22-year-old victim was getting chocolate from a shop on Weedon Road, Northampton, when he was confronted by two men and stabbed in the back.

It happened between 6pm and 6.30pm last Wednesday, August 29 in the vicinity of Weedon Road, Spencer Bridge Road and Sandhill Road.

In a separate attack about four hours later, a 43-year-old man ran into the Crown & Anchor pub in Victoria Road bleeding from a neck wound.

He had left his home in Palmerston Road to buy some food and was attacked by two men. One of the offenders stabbed him in the neck.

It is believed to have happened in the area of Abington Square, St Edmund's Road, Cyril Street and Victoria Road.

Both men were taken to hospital and were not in a life-threatening condition. Witnesses to either stabbing, should call police on 101.

Recycling - with Simply Recycling Solutions Ltd

So what about the prices then? In my experience, customers are usually six months behind, when the prices are low, you all come in saying "prices are high at the moment" when they're high you come in saying the opposite. Most of the time customers understand that the prices go up and down, normally they go down fast then creep up slowly.

So what affects prices? Well imagine the overpaid traders in any exchange, ours is the LME or London metal exchange. If a copper mine goes on strike, or if a war or disaster hits certain countries, the jumpy little traders start to panic, they're either selling or buying hundreds of tonnes at a time, for example copper. Mostly they do this worrying about next month's bonus. This in turn affects the prices on a second by second basis. Most reputable merchants will link their prices to the Lme. I have customers that come in telling me they believe most merchants seem to "just make the prices up" this I can believe. They do!

At Simply recycling Solutions Ltd, we don't, prices are fixed making them accurate and fair. We never hide prices they're on the counter for all customers to see.

At the moment we choose to export our scrap, markets are sometimes better in other countries, this makes the overall price better for the customer, as long as the customer walks away happy, they will always come back.

Pop in and see how the professionals do it, oh and bring some clothes, we buy those too.

Shoe making past is leaving its print

Northampton Museum and Art Gallery

From September 11 to October 14

A NEW exhibition will pay tribute to the people at the centre of Northamptonshire's boot and shoe making past.

Contemporary artwork SOLD represents the hearts and souls of all those who devoted their lives to the industry for which the county is famous.

It will be unveiled for the first time at Northampton Museum and Art Gallery's Shoe Lounge next week.

SOLD is part of the county-wide GLOBAL FOOTPRINT project that celebrates Northamptonshire's defining creative economy – its boot and shoe trade.

Conceptual fashion designer Jo Cope has created the boundary-pushing artwork, made up of layer upon layer of soling leather.

It celebrates the traditional shoe making process and also captures Jo's admiration for her grandmother who worked as a shoe healer for most of her life.

During her research for the piece she spent a number of days at Northamptonshire shoe factory Edward Green which has been making shoes since 1890.

Jo said: "I was excited to record each skilled hand and beautiful old machine technique by the many craftsmen.

"It takes several weeks to make each pair; made to last a lifetime. In the same way that a footprint in a landscape is evidence of someone's past presence, I was particularly interested in capturing the life and mark of the individual worker on each pair of shoes."

The museum is open Tuesday to Saturday 10am to 5pm and Sunday 2pm to 5pm. Admission is free.

Tour takes 'Home Bird' Sarah on the road

ON STAGE: Sarah Millican

COMEDY

SARAH MILLICAN

Royal & Derngate

GEORDIE funny woman Sarah Millican is heading to town - but you'll have to wait more than a year to see her.

Tickets are on sale now for the comedienne's appearance at the Northampton theatre at 8pm on Tuesday, February 25 and Wednesday, February 26 in 2014. They went on sale at the end of last week and are expected to sell fast. Priority booking was given to members of Royal & Derngate's Friends scheme.

Sarah's Home Bird tour sees the comic enjoying some hilarious domestic bliss. The British Comedy Award's Queen of Comedy is giving up the party scene, easing off on the drinking and is settling down.

Determined to place

some roots, she now has a cat and a tree.

On this, her third national tour, audiences will learn what to take on a dirty weekend, the easiest way to blend in in a posh restaurant and how to teach a pensioner to swear.

Tickets to see her in Northampton are £26, from 01604 624811 or www.royalandderngate.co.uk. The show is recommended for ages 16 and over.

HARPOLE SCARECROW FESTIVAL

Harpole village

Saturday and Sunday 10am to 5pm

PROMISING bigger and better things than even before - the Harpole Scarecrow Festival returns to the village for the 15th year.

Imaginative designs are created by the residents and has in the past featured Harry Potter, Bob the Builder and even Boris Johnson in scarecrow form.

This year visitors can expect a range of Jubilee and Olympic-themed efforts among favourite characters, celebrities and traditional creations.

People can also enjoy donkey rides, an art exhibition, live music and dance, open top bus rides, traditional fair games, a raffle and children's activities such as face painting and bouncy castles.

There is also a large range of food and drink outlets. The Festival is run entirely by volunteers and to date they have raised more than £35,000 for village charities and community projects.

Festival chairwoman Sharon Matthews said: "We try to ensure a great day out for everyone that visits the festival whatever their age regardless of whether it is their first visit to the Scarecrow Festival or their 15th!"

"Without the support of the visitors and the residents the festival wouldn't be possible so each year we strive to improve on the last year."

For the first time there will be a dog show with classes such as 'waggiest tail' and 'most like its owner'.

It will run on Sunday from noon to 4pm. Other scheduled events over the weekend include the daily cycle parade at 1pm and performances by the Boys Brigade Band at 3pm.

Hilarious club night is such a 'Scream'

COMEDY

SCREAMING BLUE MURDER

Royal & Derngate - Underground
Tomorrow at 8.15pm

THE theatre's comedy club kicks off a new season of laughs tomorrow night.

The autumn series of events gets underway when comperé Dan Evans is joined on stage by Tony Law, Pierre Hollins and Ola.

Crowned Best Breakthrough Act at the 2012 Chortle Awards,

Canadian Law's mix of laid-back commentary, scorching jokes and razor-sharp one-liners have made him popular on the circuit.

Featuring the tales of his time-travelling exploits accompanied by his sausage dog, Law has been described as infectiously funny.

Guitar-playing Hollins, with a compelling conversational style and jaunty rhyming songs, has remained a firm favourite in the comedy world, covering everything from love to politics.

Headlining at venues throughout the UK, Europe, the Middle East and Asia, Hollins has previously supported Lenny Henry and Rory Bremner on tour.

A finalist in FHM's Search For A Stand Up Hero, young comedian Ola is fast becoming known for his intelligent, edgy humour, appearing on MTV Base and as a writer and performer of The Jason Lewis Experience.

Tickets are £12.50 on the door or £11.50 in advance.

To book call the theatre's box office on 01604 624811.

E&E Motors and Tyres is on the right track...

A GARAGE that opened in April has splashed out on some state-of-the-art equipment which means it can now offer tracking and wheel alignment for the first time.

Elvis Trifon and Emi Tudorache opened E&E Motors and Tyres in April, providing mechanics, servicing and tyres.

But they have now bought a contemporary computerised wheel alignment system – which will add to their range of services.

The business is expecting to start using the machine from this week.

There is also a new ramp on site so the team can raise the vehicles they have in.

There is currently a special offer for taxi drivers who want their alignment done.

E&E Motors and Tyres is based in Quorn Way, Northampton. Pop in now to find out more.

It is open seven days a week, including bank holidays.

Playful Juke is a macho alternative

NISSAN would like you to see this car as a cross between 4x4 and sportscar, a macho alternative to a supermini for youthful urban motorists, roomy yet compact, robust yet dynamic and practical yet playful.

The Juke is certainly all of these things. True, it won't appeal to everyone but that's because it isn't supposed to.

If you love it, you'll really love it. But even if the opposite is true, you have to admire Nissan for having the courage to do something different. Very different.

The Juke really does drive as its looks suggest it should.

Which is just as well given that the top version, the car tested here, has a 16-litre turbocharged DiG-T petrol engine developing a potent 190PS, good for rest to sixty in just 8.0s on the way to 134mph. But the majority of Juke models are sold with less frantic powerplants - either a 117PS 1.6-litre petrol version with the same torque as the turbo or a 110PS 1.5-litre dCi diesel, both capable of rest to sixty in around 11s on the way to about 110mph.

Here at last is SUV-like style for the small car sector without any SUV-like compromises, precisely the same trick the company's bigger Qashqai model pulled off in targeting bigger family-sized models in the larger market segment above.

It's an approach that's worked once more here and one that will doubtless be much-copied, just as the Qashqai was.

But this is the original. And if you're either young, or young at heart, I can see why you may also think it be the best.

Racer hails 'perfect' teamwork

MOTOR SPORT

OLIVER Gavin and Tommy Miller maintained their place at the top of the American Le Mans Series GT class standings with a second place in the two-hour Baltimore Sports Car Challenge on Saturday.

The Yardley Hastings racer had put the Corvette Racing C6.R on pole, with Miller taking the wheel for the first part of the race and managing to avoid a first-corner pile-up in the process.

Gavin then took over after 48 minutes, setting a lap record on the way to second behind the Team Falken Tire Porsche driven by Wolf Senzler and Bryan Sella. That put the duo 16 points clear of Corvette teammates Antonio Garcia and Jan Magnussen.

"We had a good car all weekend and, while we were obviously hoping to be able to pull off a victory, this is a positive result as far as points and championship positions are concerned," said Gavin.

"To finish second was a pretty good deal for us and it all started with the job Tommy did at the beginning.

"He drove smart, on my qualifying tyres which probably weren't very nice to drive on, and avoided all the first corner mash-up.

"The story of our season so far has been to keep the points ticking over and, while you're leading a championship and everyone is chasing you hard, your aim has to be to maintain or – ideally – increase it.

"Everyone on the team is doing their job perfectly at the moment and that builds confidence going into the next races, both of which are longer and with more points at stake."

Gavin returns to ALMS action when the series makes its first-ever visit to the Virginia International Raceway for a four-hour race on Saturday, September 15.

Kyren cues up first win

SNOOKER

ENGLISH Under-21 Champion Kyren Wilson won his first Barratts Handicap tournament on Sunday with a 3-0 win over Harvey Chandler in the final.

The 20-year-old had some close matches en route to the final, but was in fine form among the balls as he recorded the day's highest break of 124.

Wilson also chalked up runs of 87, 86, 84, 80 and 72 during the first event of the season, while runner-up Chandler made 102 and two other half centuries.

The final swung in Wilson's favour during the first frame when Chandler missed an attempted long red while leading the frame.

Not only did he miss but he moved the other reds out from the cushions, allowing Wilson clear up before winning the next two frames to take the title.

Kev Portley claimed victory in the final of the Plate competition with a 2-0 win over Paul Atkinson.

Pisi's reasons to be cheerful – part two

RUGBY

BY MARC BAZELEY

marc.bazeley@HPhorthants.co.uk

GEORGE Pisi is probably the happiest man in rugby. Indeed, the Samoan star had even more reason to be cheerful on Saturday after scoring two tries that helped Northampton Saints to a 24-19 victory in their Aviva Premiership opener at Gloucester.

Kingsholm is proving to be something of a happy hunting ground for Pisi, who carried on where he left off in his award-laden debut season. Back in February, he took man of the match honours and was also on the score sheet against the Cherry and Whites.

On that occasion, he was on the losing team. Saturday proved a different story though, with the centre leading the way on the try-scoring front while the Saints survived being down to 13 men due to two quick sin binnings in the closing stages to take the win.

"I've been quite lucky down here, but I'm just happy that this time we won and didn't lose," said Pisi, reflecting on the result.

"The last couple of minutes were really tough for the boys, but we really wanted to win and start off the season on a high.

"For us, it really showed how good a team we are and what we can do.

"We work together, we've worked hard as a team all pre-season leading up to this and when it came down to it we were able to come out on top."

Northampton had dominated the first 40 minutes of the contest and held an 11-point lead at the interval. However, Gloucester roared back in the second half and, after debutant GJ van Velze and replacement Paul Doran Jones were yellow carded inside the last ten minutes, there was a deep, dark sense of foreboding.

Worry ye not, though, as the Saints, despite being pinned back on their own line for much of that period, battled to keep the hosts at bay and take only their second win at Kingsholm in seven years.

After that, Pisi and his team-mates must have had the half time words of director of rugby Jim Mallinder still ringing in their ears. "He told us that we were doing well and that we needed to kill off the game, and we let them in during the first ten minutes," explained the centre.

"Against a team like Gloucester, especially with the home crowd on their backs, it's hard to get on top of them. We've got a lot to work on. We're good in part, but that was our downfall last year. We couldn't seal out games and we let Gloucester back in as well.

"For us going forward, we've got to work on killing the game and winning by 20 points, which we should have done."

The defence will have their work cut out for them at Franklin's Gardens on Sunday when they face an Exeter Chiefs team that ran rampant at home to Sale Sharks in their opener, running out 43-6 victors.

Pisi believes Northampton can take heart from their valiant rearguard at Gloucester though, and hopes that it has set the tone for the rest of the season.

"It's really digging deep and doing it for the team," he explained. "I think it brings the best out of players, especially when you down and you don't have the comfort of other people there because you've got to work a little bit harder.

"That's why we do these pre-seasons. You have to work hard to get that second wind and do your best for the boys. We pride ourselves on our defence and I hope that can be the strength of our team."

Mallinder's nerves put through wringer

JIM Mallinder has endured some heart-in-mouth moments during his tenure as Northampton Saints director of rugby, but there are perhaps few as nerve-wracking as the closing stages of Saturday's win.

With his side leading Gloucester by just five points, down to 13 men due to yellow cards for GJ van Velze and Paul Doran Jones, and the home side piling on relentless pressure, Mallinder could do little but watch.

Nevertheless, a monumental defensive effort saw the Saints hold out for a 24-19 victory at Kingsholm to get their Aviva Premiership season off to a winning – if not entirely perfect – start. "It was an exciting finish, but not the sort of one you really want," said Mallinder.

"I was pleased with our first half performance – I thought we played well and took our opportunities well.

"But we talked about controlling the game in the second half and we certainly didn't do that, and I think that in the end we were probably lucky to win.

"We lost the ball from the kick off, got turned over straight away, had an opportunity to clear our lines, which we didn't take and got turned over. That pressure just builds and that's what happens."

Mallinder conceded there are improvements to be made ahead of the visit of Exeter Chiefs on Sunday.

He said: "You've got to look at the performance, and the team spirit was really good to hang on in there with 13 men for ten minutes, and we need to learn the lessons of that second half.

"We're a good team with the ball in hand and we've got to be sensible.

"Sometimes you've got to stop playing too much rugby, be pragmatic and put the ball in the corner, and make them over-play – which is something we didn't do in that second half."

JUBILANT: Jake Robinson celebrates his goal against MK Dons

Boothroyd praises 'terrific' response

FOOTBALL

BY MARC BAZELEY

marc.bazeley@hpnorthants.co.uk

AIDY Boothroyd gave them their chance and they delivered. Now the Northampton Town boss is facing a pleasing selection dilemma after a side featuring five changes defeated MK Dons in Tuesday's Johnstone's Paint Trophy tie.

Jake Robinson, thrust straight into the starting line-up after not featuring all season, grabbed the headlines for his 35-yard thunderbolt that proved the difference in the 1-0 win, but the likes of Adebayo Akinfenwa, Ishmel Demontagnac and Louis Moutl also played their part.

Cobblers have drawn with Southend United then lost to Plymouth Argyle in their most recent League Two outings, and Boothroyd is now considering changes for Saturday's visit of AFC Wimbledon.

He will have Ben Harding and John Johnson available again after injury, along with rested trio Luke Guttridge, Dave Artell and Clive Platt.

Several players who have been on the fringes may well have forced their way into the reckoning as well though.

"I said to the lads before the game, some of them have been out of the team, some have been on the bench and not got on, and some of them have been in Outer Mongolia and frozen right out," Boothroyd said.

"But that's the way the game is and you've got two choices - you can either sulk, blame the world and usually blame me, or you can respond, and I thought everybody was terrific.

"We go into a game against AFC Wimbledon on Saturday where I was disappointed with the Southend and Plymouth results.

"But we've got some good players and it's that consistency that's important. The team has been the same and we have made a steady start, and a lot of the same players have played.

"This says to them that you aren't getting a free ride all season, and you're not going to play if you play badly or you make the same mistakes over and over."

Town managed to survive an onslaught from Milton Keynes in the second half and it could have all been different had substitute Jabo Ibhere managed to tuck away Charlie MacDonald's pass across the face of goal in the closing stages.

On-loan goalkeeper Lee Nicholls also pulled off a string of fine saves to keep the Dons at bay, and Boothroyd was pleased with the way his side performed after defeats in their previous two matches.

"Football is a very weird game, isn't it?" he said. "We had a game on Thursday against Wolves and you think at the end of it that, despite them being a Championship team, we should have got more out of it.

"You go to Plymouth and, even though it's a long way, you fancy your chances because of the group that you've got and the way we are progressing, and we beat ourselves.

"Then you have a game like this where it's the last of three in six days against a very good team that are going to have the ball a lot and run around you, and you end up winning it.

"We played very well, created lots of chances, had to defend but so did they. Both teams made changes and I thought every player to a man was outstanding."

'Confident' Reeve set for battle

BOXING

NATHAN Reeve knows that defeating Terry Broadbent in their British Masters showdown on Saturday night will present big opportunities for him sooner rather than later.

The duo will go head-to-head for the vacant super flyweight belt in the main event of the six-fight card at Northampton's Park Inn Hotel, and with both having similar records it promises to be closely-matched.

This title contest has come for both at the early stages of their careers.

This is only Reeve's (6(3)-1) eighth paid bout, while Broadbent (5(2)-1) has had just one less. Coincidentally, the only defeats the pair have suffered came on the same night in last October's Prizefighter event.

"Whoever wins this fight, it is going to put us among the elite fighters in this country," said former Far Cotton Boys amateur Reeve. "I worked out that if I win this fight then I will be ranked third in the UK at super flyweight. There are not too many above me then and it will open up some big opportunities for whoever the winner may be, which I'm pretty confident will be me.

"It has come at an early stage of both of our careers, but my manager did say when I first started out that my chances are going to come sooner because there are not as many people in the weight division.

"You've got to be prepared to take that responsibility a lot sooner, and people might think it's easy but it's not because you get less time to learn."

With only around 14 boxers campaigning at super flyweight in the UK, the opportunities could come thick and fast for Reeve with a victory on Saturday night.

There is even the possibility of boxing for the British title within his next few contests.

Kanes more than able...

Ripley's men will be reflecting on 'lost year'

CRICKET

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE'S season comes to its conclusion this week, and it is fair to surmise that 2012 may well be looked back upon as the lost year.

After narrowly missing out on promotion to Division One in the LV= County Championship last year, expectations of going one step further were high.

But instead, it has been a season of upheaval, with head coach David Capel removed halfway through the campaign and replaced by David Ripley.

Northants are currently in action away to Gloucestershire in their final County Championship game of the year, and will end it in mid-table.

True, the poor weather has meant that numerous days have been lost, but that is a problem that has afflicted all 18 first class counties over the summer.

Since stepping up from his role running the club's Academy, Ripley has had at least half an eye on building for the 2013 season and several of the current squad have already signed up.

Alex Wakely, David Willey, Kyle Coetzer and David Sales have all agreed new contracts, while Wakely has also been promoted to vice captain.

Ripley and chief executive David Smith have also made improving the performances of the Steelbacks in limited overs cricket a priority after more dismal showings.

Once again, Northants failed to seriously challenge for a place in the knock-out stages of both the Clydesdale Bank 40 and Friends Life t20 competitions during 2012.

Jake upbeat after cup wonder strike

FOOTBALL

BY MARC BAZELEY

marc.bazeley@HNorthants.co.uk

JAKE Robinson knows he is waiting for another chance at Northampton Town that might never come, but after his match-winning wonder goal against MK Dons on Tuesday evening he hopes he has made manager Aidy Boothroyd take notice.

It has not been an easy time for the 25-year-old forward since moving to Sixfields last summer. It was not even certain he would still be here after the transfer window closed last Friday having being deemed surplus to requirements.

However, Robinson seized his moment after being handed a start in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy first round tie. His 11th minute volley from 35 yards proved to be the difference between the sides.

"In an ideal world the manager says 'you've played really well so here's a chance in the league', but we all know that's not how it works in football, but I'll be ready," said Robinson.

"I'm prepared for all eventualities and I'm waiting for a chance, whether that comes or not. If I have to play somewhere else, then I'm match fit and ready because I keep working hard.

"I'd love it to be here and I'd love to get another chance because I feel like I have come back this year a different player to last year.

"That goal probably shows that a little bit, and it's annoying for me because I feel really good and might not get a chance for another couple of weeks, but I'm keeping positive."

That strike was his first goal for the Cobblers, coming in his 36th appearance, and when he was substituted for fellow forgotten man Paul Turnbull in the 75th minute he was given a standing ovation.

Robinson thanked the fans for their backing over the past 14 months, but whether or not he has done enough to force his way into the reckoning for Saturday's League Two game at home to AFC Wimbledon remains to be seen, as he has yet to feature in a league match day squad this season.

Robinson said: "I came back knowing my chances were possibly going to be limited, but after pre-season went well I thought that I might have half a chance.

"The first game away at Rochdale, I was surprised not to be involved at all, but it's the gaffer's decision and since then the squad has done really well. They've scored goals and I'm not complaining about that, so why would you change a team that is doing well?

"I thought pre-season went well for me; I came back fit, strong, scored goals, played minutes and then it worked out I wasn't in the gaffer's plans. What else could I do? I didn't change my attitude at all. I kept working hard, kept plugging away and doing the best that could help the team get results.

"It wasn't happening for me, but I'm not a player that's going to start sulking and venting my frustration."

Mallinder joy at return of flanker Wood

RUGBY

JIM Mallinder was delighted to welcome Tom Wood back into the Northampton Saints side, admitting the flanker had been missed while out with a toe injury.

Wood's last appearance was in the Aviva Premiership win over London Wasps on March 24 when he was forced off at half time.

But he managed the full 80 minutes in Saturday's season-opening 24-19 victory at Gloucester after making his comeback during pre-season.

"Without a doubt, we missed him last season," said Saints director of rugby Mallinder. "He is important to the team and it is good that he is playing.

"I'm delighted for him to play a full 80 minutes when we've been taking it steady with him. He hasn't overplayed in pre-season, so we've just been drip-feeding him in and I think he's really pleased to have got through the 80 minutes. We're being cautious with him and we don't want to get carried away, but we're really pleased that he is back and playing well."

Wood should be in line to play in the first home game of the season against Exeter Chiefs on Sunday, and no doubt has a desire to return to the international scene.

His injury forced him to miss England's Six Nations campaign and their summer tour to South Africa, but he could be in contention to feature in the Autumn Internationals.

There is also the prospect of being chosen for the British & Irish Lions tour to Australia next year should the 25-year-old re-establish himself in the England set-up.

Mallinder, though, would not be drawn on those prospects, saying: "That's probably a little bit too far away for Tom. It is a cliché, but it's that next game for him. We know the potential of Tom Wood and hopefully he can have a big season for us."
